[GENERAL MANAGER] RACES WASHOUTS DEVASTATE

[Fa]nitou is Strewn From End to End With Wreckage and Debris---Rio and Road Using Short Line---The Pass is Much Altered---Several Narrow Escapes Death.

The fair town of Manitou presents a sorry spectacle this morning. The Fontaine qui Bouille has again demonstrated its right to the name that it bears.

There was a cloudburst in the vicinity of Woodland park.

The flood that descended the pass yesterday afternoon did more damage in Manitou and the pass than has been done before by a single storm for years. There is not a wagon bridge left in the pass below Cascade, the Rainbow fall one of the deadly spots of the vicinity of Manitou has been put out of existence, the carriage road is washed out completely at several places being entirely gone and the wall built from the creek bottom to the top of the wall of the canon where the Rainbow fall was but yesterday. In the Soda Springs park in Manitou, the wreckage consisting of household goods, lumber, railroad ties, bridge timber, tree trunks etc., is from 20 to 30 feet high. The bridge leading from the street railway line to the band stand in the Soda Springs park is washed away as also is the main bridge connecting the Soda Springs pavilion with the street. During the height of the flood the Manitou Mineral Water company's building was a foot under water, the main floor and most of the stores along the north side of Canon avenue were a foot under water for an hour. Fully one hundred people have been moved from their former foundations and stored in other locations. There were many reports of loss of life during the early evening but Mayor Nichols, who made a careful investigation of the same was enabled to verify anything of the kind.

The Denver and Rio Grande railroad lost a bridge between Manitou and Colorado Springs, and is washed out at Buttes, 18 miles below the city limits of Wigwam, which is 13 miles north of Pueblo.

The Colorado Midland is totally out of business in Ute pass, being washed out in many places, and the wreckage of its line is scattered along the banks of the creek for 20 miles below the city limits.

During the storm in the Ute pass was cut off last evening as the wires were all down between Manitou and Woodland Park. For this reason the full extent of the damage done could not be ascertained at that time. It is safe to state, however, from the reports now at hand that it will amount to many thousands of dollars.

The section above and closely adjacent to Manitou probably received the greatest damage. As the solid wall of water rushed onward the debris and wreckage was piled on either side and at some points is said to be fully 50 feet in height. The Ute pass carriage road is almost entirely washed away and it is reported that the beauty of Rainbow Falls is sadly impaired by the force of the flood.

For a short time yesterday afternoon Manitou was threatened with a cloudburst and it was only by extreme good fortune that a flood was averted. About noon heavy black clouds began to form in the mountains on the west and up Ute pass and after the excessive heat which has characterized the weather for the past few days, a big rain was expected. About 2 o'clock rain began to fall and during the afternoon one of the heaviest rain falls seen for years occurred. The street car tracks were soon covered with sand in some places a great deal of ballasting was washed away. At Barr's, midway between Manitou and Colorado City the tracks were covered with sand for a distance of about 20 feet and traffic was delayed on the line for some time. Passengers were transferred around the bad track until the sand could be removed. A number of tourists who are stopping there were in Colorado Springs when the rain commenced and were unable to reach that city for some time after the rain.

At 2 o'clock the operator at the Western Union office received a dispatch from Green Mountain Falls stating that that town had been visited by a cloudburst and to warn all those living along Fountain Qui Bouile in Ute pass as the stream at that place was rising rapidly and those living near the stream especially campers, were in considerable danger. Men on horses went to the pass and a warning was given to those who could be reached. An hour and a half after the message was received, a wall of water about 15 feet high came down the creek.

Frank Hoel, the postmaster at Cascade arrived in the city about 10 o'clock last night via the old Leadville trail and states that all of the county road bridges between that place and Manitou are washed away. He estimates the damage to the county at at least $800.

He further states that 200 feet of the Colorado Midland track at a point 75 feet below Cascade is washed completely from the road bed and that at a point near Hurricane creek the track is badly damaged for a distance of 80 rods. The entire right of way is covered with drift and sand and there were a number of land slides which added to the general havoc. He reports the carrying away of the fence surrounding the cutting house at Cascade and says that for a width of 300 feet at that point, within five minutes the water was running three feet deep. He also reports the loss of some stock. A number of barns and small buildings were also washed away.

Mr. E. C. Johnson, who with his wife and child was camping at the first bridge above Rainbow Falls, lost all of his personal effects and but for the bravery of Harry S. Smith, an employe, his wife and little one would have been drowned.

Mr. Johnson was in this city at the time and knew nothing of the occurrence until last evening. His story of the affair as told him by Smith is as follows:

About 3:30 o'clock Smith heard a roar and on looking up the creek saw a wall of water over 15 feet in height rapidly approaching. He seized my wife and throwing her upon a horse gave the animal a kick and the horse carried her to the side hill above the reach of the flood. Smith then ran and picked up my little three-year-old daughter Gladys and started for the hill side, but before they could reach it the waters were upon them. He had a hard battle for life and my child was nearly smothered by the flood. She was unconscious for over half an hour and for a time it was feared she would die. She is now entirely out of danger however. My camp outfit was all washed away including my wagon and my loss will reach at least $700.

Among the effects lost by Mr. Johnson are a steamer trunk containing wearing apparel, a pocketbook containing $75 in bills, three diamond rings and one diamond pin. The latter was in the shape of a turtle, one of the stones contained a ruby encircled with diamonds, another was a carat diamond set in a tiger claw and the other was of the same size and weight in a Tiffany setting. He will pay a suitable reward for the return of any or all of the articles. The goods can be left at the Hillcrest cottage near Manitou. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson are both well known in this city. The former at one time was in the employ of Tetley, the undertaker, who formerly occupied the quarters at 16 East Bijou now occupied by the firm of Flemming and Patterson. He and his family now reside at Fowler, Colorado, where he is engaged in ranching. Mrs. Johnson is the daughter of W. L. Allard general manager of the Cincinnati, Richmond and Muncie railway.

HEAVY RAINS IN ARKANSAS VALLEY

By Associated Press.

Pueblo Aug 5. A great rain throughout the Arkansas valley which lasted all afternoon has been of inestimable benefit. Not since 1858 has there been so terrible a dearth of water as has been experienced in the last month. The strange lack of snow last winter in the mountains caused the whole country to be dry. There has been for weeks practically no water for irrigation ditches. In the San Luis valley and other valleys cattle could not even get water to drink, and were being shipped out by trainloads. Water supplies of all towns have been at the last ebb. The situation was unprecedented and alarming. Today's rain seems providential and changes impending ruin to prosperity. The river is bank full and has broken one of the minor levees and flooded the state insane asylum's big garden, the finest in the country. Railroads between here and Colorado Springs are washed out but the extent of the damage is not learned. The main cloudburst must have been between here and Cripple Creek. Some damage on ranches resulted.

[INTERSTATE STREET RAILROAD] STRIKE HAS BEEN SETTLED

By Associated Press.

Huntington, W. Va., Aug. 5.—The Cabell interstate street railroad strike which has been on since Sunday last was declared off today and all the cars in the city, Kenova and West Virginia are being operated today on the lines as usual.

Mayor Judge Laidley of the police court, of two days' duration, was arrested for carrying concealed weapons. Z. T. Vinson of the strikers' company, was present to defend them. While the trial was proceeding, Vinson asked the judge if he would step into the office for a moment and grant a private conversation between the union officials and officials of the company who were in the courtroom. The judge consented and after a conference lasting an hour the latter announced that the trial would not proceed further and ordered both prisoners released stating that both sides had come to a satisfactory agreement and that the strike was declared off. All the men on the Guyan division ratified the agreement later and traffic on all the lines was resumed this evening.

There was no violence of a serious nature today; they were, however, so flagrant that it was impossible to keep them from the knowledge of the public. The introduction alone of the public school system was just cause for alarm."

The speaker then declared that the federation is deeply interested in obtaining just treatment for the friars in the Philippines, who had suffered, he declared, "under so many cruel calumnies."

Bishop McFaul charged that in selecting teachers for the Philippines, discrimination had been practiced against the Catholics because of a total of 987 teachers who, he said, had been sent to the islands, but 18 or 19 were Catholics.

"The impression has gone abroad," the bishop said, "that America is furnishing educational facilities for the Filipinos for the first time and the people were in a state of dense ignorance. This is another calumny. During centuries the friars dwelt with the tribes of the Filipinos and it is to them that they are indebted for whatever they possess of education and religion. They are a chaste and pure people, unaware of many of the vices of civilization until American soldiers occupied their soil."

The convention will meet in executive session at 8 o'clock tomorrow morning.

[BISHOP] RAL TAKES ISSUE WITH [WARSHIP] RELIEF

By Associated Press.

Chicago, August 5.—The American Association of Catholic societies met this afternoon and evening at the Young Men's Christian Association hall. It was evident from the tenor of the remarks made in the evening that the convention would not heed the manifesto of Archbishop Ireland warning them against a discussion of the administration's methods in the Philippines. At the evening meeting Bishop McFaul of Trenton, N. J., was the principal speaker and directed his attention to the treatment of friars and the schools in the Philippines. The bishop said in part:

"The calm, intelligent observer must admit that some of the statements made in the public press regarding the situation in the Philippines were either incorrect or exaggerated. There was nevertheless a very substantial foundation of truth in most of the reports which amply justified the strictures made upon those accountable for the abuse of power.

"No one is foolish enough to admit that in affairs of so important a nature mere denials are conclusive, particularly when made by interested parties. We had already been warned to be on our guard by previous contradictions of reports which were afterward proved true and found worse than at first suspected. When the news arrived that the Catholic churches in the Philippines were destroyed and looted, officers of high rank in the army attempted to refute the charges yet the destruction and looting of those sacred edifices are now so certain that claims for damages to ecclesiastical property will be accepted by the government.

"Reports, too, of the frightful spread of drunkenness and immorality after the occupation of Manila by the American army were vigorously assailed. Is there now any one who has the audacity to question their truth? Since then we have all heard of the 'water cure,' and the murderous orders issued by an American general. The perpetration of these outrages were not known for a

TRACY SPENT SUNDAY WITH A RANCHMAN

By Associated Press.

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 5.—The sheriff's office at Davenport received a message from Creston this afternoon stating that Tracy spent all day Monday at the home of L. B. Eddy, a rancher on Lake Creek, about three and a half miles south of Fellows. The outlaw made his appearance Sunday evening and took possession of the place. He is reported to have been there that night about 7:30. Tracy made himself at home. He compelled Eddy to feed his horses, also to sharpen his knives and his razor.

CATHOLIC BISHOP REMOVED.

Rome, August 5.—The Osservatore Romano says that at the request of Russia, Bishop Sewerowsej, Catholic bishop of Vilna, Russia, has been removed from his diocese.

[SETTLED] FEELING [PREVAILS] SHENANDOAH

No Serious Trouble Occurred --A Workman Shot and Slightly Injured at Girardville.

By Associated Press.

Shenandoah, Pa., August 5.—The peace of this troop-protected town remains unbroken. The unsettled feeling which has been apparent for the last few days, however, continues. It was a lively day at brigade headquarters, where all the staff officers were kept busy in connection with the movements of troops and in keeping in touch with the situation in the entire country. There were many rumors of trouble, but excepting at Girardville, where a workman was shot and slightly injured, nothing of a serious nature occurred anywhere. Brigadier-General Gobin was unusually alert, however, and kept soldiers in readiness for instant use all day long. Many stories of threatened trouble reached him, but he was able in every instance to run them down without sending out a detail of men. Officers around headquarters feel that the tension is increasing and would not be surprised if some of the troops now in camp here were sent into the surrounding region.

Probably the most important development in the Shenandoah region today was the arrest and commitment to the county jail of two wounded Lithuanians who participated in the riot of last week. The arrest was attended with a considerable show of military force, they being taken into custody by constables who were surrounded by a platoon of infantry and being taken through the streets under a strong guard.

The prisoners are Antony Klimdviz and Stanislaus Zukowski. Each had been shot in the foot during the riot and was unable to walk. They were located in boarding houses in the foreign quarter of the town. The constables feared that trouble would result when they arrested them and upon their suggestion General Gobin sent a platoon of Company L of the Twelfth regiment to protect them.

The soldiers formed a line around the houses and the two Lithuanians were carried from the houses and placed in an open wagon. By this time a crowd of foreigners of different nationalities had gathered around the soldiers and followed them and the prisoners to the office of Squire W. H. Shoemaker, where the prisoners were given a hearing. While the hearing was in progress the platoon kept the crowd some distance from the place. The Lithuanians, along with a fellow countryman named Waldo Rowinski, who was arrested late Saturday night on the charge of being a participant in the riot, were then arraigned.

The principal witness was Thomas R. Beddall, a deputy sheriff who was in the riot. He identified the men and testified to having deliberately shot them, wounding them in the feet. The three men were then held on $2,000 bail each, and in default they were taken to the jail at Pottsville.

Many rumors were in circulation today of trouble in the camp here and at various parts of the region. The only disturbance that occurred, however, was at Girardville, six miles from Shenandoah, where a station workman named Capparll, coming from the Girard washery, operated by W. R. McTurk & company, was shot in the leg. The injured man had been engaged at work which had been forbidden by the union and had been warned several times to quit. This morning on his way home he was met on the road by a half dozen unknown men who began to beat him. Capparll ran and as he did so one of the men fired at him. Some of the buckshot hit him in the leg. He walked to a physician's office and after having the shot extracted, walked to the Lehigh Valley railroad station and boarded a train for Hazelton. Burgess Jones is investigating the assault.

During the night several shots were heard in Shenandoah between brigade headquarters and camp. This gave rise to a rumor that the camp was again being attacked, but an official investigation proved the rumor to be untrue. The provost marshal is making a searching investigation as to who did the shooting.

The cavalry took another dash across country today for exercise, this time going in the direction of Frickville. The region generally remains quiet.

Three members of company L of the Twelfth regiment, who left the camp last night without leave, were chased by a crowd of men on the outskirts of town, and sought refuge in the house of Squire McGuiness at Frickville. The soldiers will be court-martialed.

Chief of Police Fry and other borough officials conferred today with General Gobin and confessed their inability to cope with the situation in the southern sections of Shenandoah, where the Cambridge colliery is located, and asked that troops be sent there. The officials alleged that men gathered in that part of town and molest every person, not excepting women, that happens along. Men could no longer work there in safety, and threats are openly made. General Gobin consented to station two companies of infantry in the locality.

DEMOCRATIC STATE CENTRAL COMMITTEE

Special to the Gazette.

Denver, Aug. 5.—The Democratic state central committee meets tomorrow at the St. James hotel to decide upon the time and place of the next state convention. Both Cripple Creek and Denver are bidding for the convention, with the latter apparently in the lead.

The committee at this meeting will adopt new rules to govern the convention and Chairman Milton Smith has drafted a set of rules which he will present to the committee for adoption. He will recommend the adoption of the unit rule in counties where the county convention has indorsed it and will recommend that a majority of the county delegation be allowed to cast the full vote of the county where the entire delegation is not present.

The city is filling up with prominent Democratic leaders and many candidates are launching their booms. There seems to be a division of sentiment on the question of the state convention indorsing a candidate for the United States senate, a considerable element being opposed to any indorsement of a candidate.

[Respectable Republicans Secure] Wrest from State Control. [Democrats.]

GAZETTE'S NOTABLE VICTORY

[Wilsom and Downer Appointments Mark] New Era in Republican Politics in Colorado and Give Promise of Republican Success.

Special to the Gazette.

Denver, Aug. 5.—The question of candidates for state offices is temporarily lost sight of in the interest shown over federal appointments. This afternoon the news reached this city that Frank M. Downer of Longmont had been appointed as superintendent of the Denver mint in place of J. L. Hodges, and of Joseph H. Milsom of Ogden City as successor to Henry Brady, melter.

The universal subject of conversation this evening among politicians is the triumph of the reform movement, and it is universally agreed that such a wave of public sentiment is absolutely unprecedented in the political history of Colorado. It has indeed been a wave in the proportions of a cloudburst. All who have opposed it have been swept out of its course, and the regular party organization, which at first seemed inclined to belittle and ignore it, has been compelled as a matter of self-protection to join in the movement and to assume the air of being in the lead of a movement that was sweeping them onward and was absolutely beyond their direction or control.

With few exceptions Republicans are unanimous that these appointments, following upon the revised rules adopted as a result of the popular demand and intended to secure popular control of party affairs, marks the complete downfall of the Wolcott-Stevenson gang of federal officeholders and their necessary withdrawal from the self-appointed leadership of the party in this state.

The exceptions consist of the leaders and the few remaining followers of the Wolcott-Stevenson-Brady-Hodges-Frank Howbert gang, who have exhausted every possible effort to retain their hold on the party organization and to secure the reappointment of their friends among the federal officeholders as a reward for political service in behalf of the gang. Brady's term expired in June, 1901, and that of Hodges in December of the same year, since which time they have retained their offices without the formality of a reappointment, but by and with the earnest effort of the entire gang.

A. M. Stevenson is especially sore over the appointment of Milsom, as it is well known that his special effort for the past few weeks has been directed against the appointment of Milsom, whom he regards as too respectable for a federal officeholder in Colorado.

The new appointments are regarded as another setback for the gang news-papers in this city and the afternoon gang newspaper in Colorado Springs.

The Gazette, which was the leader in the fight against the federal office-holding gang in this state, comes in for a very large share of the compliments and is credited with having done a vast amount of good in improving Republican conditions and prospects in Colorado. Sentiment upon this point was well expressed by a prominent Republican from the western part of the state, who is in the city tonight: "The Colorado Springs Gazette certainly deserves a big share of the credit for the reform triumph. When that paper began whacking away at the Wolcott gang it looked like a hopeless task, and we did not know whether to laugh or to lament at the efforts it was making. But the gang structure was rotten from core to surface, and it is amazing how quickly it crumbled under a few well directed and properly repeated blows. In a few weeks the gang that had for so long a time terrorized the Republican party of this state and directed its every movement and led it to defeat when defeat would serve its selfish purpose better than victory, was in full pursuit, and now nobody dares to call himself anything else than a reformer."

One rather interesting development that has recently come to light is that the reform leaders had a very positive assurance of final success from very early in the history of the movement. They had sufficient confidence in the intelligence and integrity of the Republican people of the state to feel perfectly sure that if the facts in the case were presented in their true light, public sentiment would be aroused which could not be resisted by any bosses or machine, and further than this it is now known that positive and specific assurances were had of what would finally take place and under what conditions. With such confidence in the rank and file of the Republican party in Colorado and with such satisfactory inside information the insurgents could well afford to watch with patience and amusement the antics of those who have been chiefly occupied for several months in the effort to decide for themselves which way the cat was going to jump and upon which side their bread was buttered.

The important point is that Republican harmony is more firmly established than it has been in this state since the Wolcott-Stevenson gang first succeeded in boosting itself into power, and that this harmony is established upon a basis that is most conducive to party success in the future.

GERMAN MEAT INSPECTION

By Associated Press.

Washington, August 5.—The state department today made public reports from Ambassador White at Berlin, dated July 12 and 14, that according to an official proclamation the meat inspection law will go into force in its entirety on April 1, 1903, with the exception of the section which relates to doing away with the second examination of meat only officially inspected. This paragraph will go into effect October 1, 1904.

A report on the new regulations received from Consul-General Richard Guenther of Frankfort, says that as the time is approaching when the new regulations concerning the importation of meat and its transit through Germany will go into force, it will be well to note that the following imports in Germany are prohibited:

Meat in hermetically sealed boxes and vessels as well as sausages and mixtures of chopped meats; dog meat, also prepared meat of horses and mules, salipeds, and meat which has been treated with one of the following substances or with a preparation containing such: Borate acid and its salts, formaldehyde, hydro-oxydes and carbonates of alkalis, sulphurous acid and its salts, hypo-sulphurous salts, fluorhydro and its salts, salicylic acid and its salts, chloride salts and coloring substances of whatever nature. The latter, however, may be employed for coloring coverings if not otherwise prohibited. Fresh meat may be imported into Germany i. whole carcasses only. When imported in halves the two halves must be so marked as to be readily identified. The report of the consul gives detailed information as to how fresh meats must be prepared to be imported.

PREPARING FOR CORONATION

London, August 5.—The emphatic denials of the sinister rumors of King Edward's condition are confirmed by all persons who have recently visited his majesty.

The king will land at Portsmouth and entrain for London at half-past 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon and his train is due to arrive in London at half-past 5. His drive to Buckingham palace will be an extended route instead of the direct way in order that the public may have an opportunity to see and congratulate the sovereign. The king has commanded that coronation day and the anniversary of his coronation be observed as collar day, a day of ceremony at the English court, when the courtiers wear the collars of their orders. On account of the approaching coronation most of the volunteers are at present undergoing their annual training at Salisbury. It has been decided that they are to leave their camp August 8 instead of August 9. The rehearsal of the coronation ceremony in Westminster Abbey this afternoon was the most largely attended and elaborate one which has yet been held. The king and the queen and other prominent personages who were not present were represented at the proceedings by substitutes. Colonel Brocklehurst, equerry to his majesty, impersonated his majesty, and Lady of Suffield, one of the ladies of the bedchamber, took the part of the queen. Even the servants were drilled in their duties connected with the robing arrangement and the pages carried out their theoretical functions of cornet carrying and train bearing. Although the religious and musical features of the ceremonies were omitted this afternoon the instructions and repetitions by those who are not perfect in their parts caused the rehearsal to occupy about the full time planned for Saturday.

WATERS OF GREAT SALT LAKE ARE RECEDING

By Associated Press.

Salt Lake, August 5.—Great Salt Lake, which for several years has been slowly but steadily receding, has, according to Director Murdock of the United States weather bureau, now reached the lowest level ever recorded since observations have been taken by the department. Up to August 1 the lowest mark ever recorded was July 11. Since that time the lake has receded an additional four inches. The fall of the water since 1894 amounts to nearly six feet, and on the low flat eastern shore this has resulted in a recession of the water line during that time of fully three-quarters of a mile.

In speaking of this phenomenon, Director Murdoch said today:

"Utah has been in a dry cycle for 17 or 18 years. In this period the precipitation has been considerably below the average. Precipitation sometimes moves in cycles of this character and duration and I think a prolonged period of increased precipitation is nearly due. But it will take several wet years to bring the lake back to its former level."

DISTINGUISHED VISITOR COMING—According to advices received here, his royal highness, the crown prince of Siam, is expected to visit Colorado Springs about the middle of October. The prince and his party will make an extended tour of the western states and will spend several days in Colorado, visiting this and neighboring cities and making the trip up the pink.

"The Hound of the Baskervilles"

Another Adventure of Sherlock Holmes.

A. Conan Doyle.

MY DEAR ROBINSON

It was your first account of a west country legend which first suggested the idea of this tale to my mind For this, and for the help which you gave me in its evolution, all thanks

Yours most truly,

A CONAN DOYLE

Dr Mortimer drew a folded [illegible] paper out of his pocket

Now Mr Holmes we will give you something a little more recent Here is the Devon County Chronicle of March 14th of the year It has a short account of the facts elicited at the death of Sir Charles Baskerville which occurred a few days before that date

My friend leaned a little forward and his expression became intent Our visitor readjusted his glasses and began

The recent death of Sir Charles Baskerville which name has been mentioned as the probable Liberal candidate for Mid Devon at the next election has cast a gloom over the county Though Sir Charles had resided at Baskerville Hall for a comparatively short period his amiability of character and extensive charities had won the affection and respect of all who had been brought into contact with him In these days of nouveaux riches it is refreshing to find a case where the scion of an old county family which has been compelled to part with the family acres is leaving behind him a name which will be honored in the district for many generations to come Sir Charles was well known in London as the generous philanthropist of many schemes which benefited the poor of the metropolis He was the chief supporter of the Cabman's Shelter Fund and was a liberal subscriber to the Free Library and Museum Scheme Had he lived to be entertained at the forthcoming festivities at Exeter it is safe to say that his name would have been received with more enthusiasm than that of any other man in the county Sir Charles was only sixty one years of age but a constitution which had plainly been severely tried by an Indian climate and by the responsibilities of command rendered him prematurely old His death was particularly sudden being due to heart failure on the night of March 4th Dr Mortimer who was his friend and medical attendant has given me the facts relating to the case He found Sir Charles standing at the gate leading from the yew alley into the moor on the night in question and he had remained there for some half hour awaiting the arrival of a friend Mr Stapleton of Merripit House Three years before Sir Charles had been the victim of a severe attack of angina pectoris from which his recovery was entirely unexpected On the night in question Dr Mortimer had left his patient leaning on the gate while he himself walked a few paces down the alley In passing back he was surprised to see that Sir Charles was no longer there and before he had reached him he heard a cry from his lips a terrible cry which he remembers to have rung in his ears ever since He hurried forward and found the unfortunate gentleman lying face downward on the ground Dr Mortimer was the first to reach the body but Stapleton was very close at hand Indeed considering the distance from which Stapleton must have come it was surprising that he should be the first to arrive Mortimer was impressed with the fact that Sir Charles's face had a horror stamped upon it which agreed with the statement of Stapleton that he had been running when he first saw him Sir Charles had been dead for at least half an hour when the body was found There was no wound or bruise upon the body and although the doctor found that the deceased gentleman had stumbled as he reached the end of his walk he considered that the symptoms were sufficiently explained by the nature of the heart disease from which he suffered and that death was due to that cause alone Stapleton was prepared to confirm the statement of Dr Mortimer that no traces were to be seen upon the ground round the body and in fact the doctor appears to have considered the matter as one which needed no further investigation Sir Charles had given directions that the following day certain papers should be packed and sent up to London A shipping trunk was therefore filled and other odds and ends removed Nothing was found to throw any light upon the cause of death Mortimer's evidence showed that Sir Charles had been in the habit of taking a short walk before retiring for the night and that his general health had been excellent Mortimer was the first to discover the body but there were signs that Barrymore the butler had been walking down the alley and that he had stood for some minutes by the gate Barrymore however was able to state that his master had shown symptoms of uneasiness during the day and had asked him to remain on duty in the hall up to midnight as he expected a visitor on urgent business Barrymore had noticed the approach of Sir Charles to the gate and had seen him pass through it His own impression was that Sir Charles was expecting someone to come to him from the moor and that he was deeply agitated at the thought Barrymore's evidence showed that the footprints of Sir Charles were distinguishable until he came to the gate after which point he could see no trace save that the left foot appeared to be slightly in front of the right No other person appears to have been actually present at the moment of death Mortimer's own evidence showed that the doctor had been walking briskly down the alley but that he had reached the end before Sir Charles had arrived there and that he had seen no one either before or after that point Both medical men agree that the evidence points to heart disease as the cause of death and there is nothing to indicate that violence of any sort had been employed or that any other person had been present at the time

The coroner's verdict was in accordance with the medical testimony Nothing could be more easy and straightforward than the case appears to be Nothing but the position of the dead man would suggest that he had been overtaken by a sudden and overwhelming terror Had he lost his reason before he died Had he been pursued by some fear which made life unendurable Such are the questions which arise but the answers are not forthcoming

Mr Holmes you have asked me to look into the matter and to suggest a solution I have hesitated to do so because there is no doubt that the county police are quite competent to deal with any ordinary case but frankly this is anything but ordinary

Holmes

The circumstances are indeed remarkable I have heard some slight account of the facts but I should be very glad if you would give me fuller details

Holmes is the private ones He leaned back put his finger tips together and assumed his most impressive and judicial expression

In doing so said Dr Mortimer who had begun to show signs of some strong emotion I am telling that which I have not confided to anyone My motive in withholding it from the coroner's inquiry is that a man of science shrinks from placing himself in the public position of coming to conclusions of the most tentative character which may remotely influence the fate of a human being Sir Charles had indeed many friends who would suffer much from any false step which might be taken but this statement should not rest upon slight grounds I trust implicitly to your discretion Mr Holmes to your tact and to your judgment that you will steer a proper course between any extreme action on the one hand or undue reticence on the other In order that you may comprehend the situation I will lay before you the facts connected with the past life of the unfortunate gentleman as far as I have been able to ascertain them

Sir Charles was as you may be aware a bachelor but he was a very popular man and he had many friends during a residence of five and twenty years in Devonshire Among them all I cannot think of one who was intimate with him His habits were formed before I settled in the county I am aware however that he was assiduous in his attentions to Miss Laura Lyons the daughter of Frankland of Lafter Hall and that these attentions were keenly resented by the old man on account of a disreputable marriage which had taken place in early life Sir Charles however appears to have been a man who was quite unable to refuse himself any pleasure which came in his way and I have reason to know that his friendship for the lady caused him considerable embarrassment on account of the attitude of her father Frankland was a widower and childless so far as is known Miss Lyons was young and presumably good looking Her position was anomalous and lonely Her relations with Sir Charles were peculiar but entirely above reproach Such was the situation when I first came down here

I gathered from what you said in your letter that Sir Charles had definitely abandoned all social life and that he was even careful to avoid the society of ladies

Mortimer

Such was the case Holmes

Holmes

Then why should this lady be mentioned in connection with his name Was it natural that he should allow her name to be so mentioned when there was a prospect of his making a conquest among the fair sex

Mortimer

Sir Charles was a very courtly man and he was chivalrous in his feelings with regard to women He would have been horrified if he had thought that his friendship for Miss Lyons had exposed her to remark

Holmes

Then we will pass on to the second point Sir Charles had received a letter from a lady

Mortimer

Yes

Holmes

Did you see it

Mortimer

Sir Charles was a very methodical man Every morning he looked through his correspondence and destroyed the greater part of it Unless I had some particular reason for preserving a letter I do not even read it after it has been dealt with and I rely upon my correspondents to check any misstatement which may be made in my answers In the present case I did read the letter in question for it was marked as requiring special attention Moreover it was from a woman whom I had known in former years and whose character I had every reason to respect

Holmes

You are a model correspondent Have you the letter

Mortimer

I have only this fragment The remainder has been destroyed

Holmes

When did you receive it

Mortimer

The letter was dated on the 29th of April and was delivered by the evening post

Holmes

Then Sir Charles had a clear week before the fatal event Pray let me have the fragment

Mortimer

I will read it It is very short Dear Sir Charles I have something most important to say to you I beg that you will not allow anything to prevent you from meeting me at the gate at ten o'clock Please burn this letter Yours faithful Beryl Stapleton

Holmes

Hum A rendezvous Was the lady married or single

Mortimer

Single

Holmes

But you have said that there was some scandal in connection with her name

Mortimer

The fact is that she had been governess in the Frankland family and had gone to South America with her employers Her return coincided with that of Miss Laura Lyons who had just come into a fortune and was anxious to find a companion Miss Stapleton as she then was had very excellent testimonials and as she was a lady by birth and education her position was quite a tolerable one

Holmes

Pray proceed

Mortimer

Miss Stapleton was a very fine woman both handsome and accomplished She was an enthusiastic naturalist and her leisure time was spent in the study of butterflies and moths Her brother Stapleton was also a naturalist and had written a couple of interesting books Both were excellent people and both were extremely popular in the district Stapleton was a much younger man than his sister He is reported to be a very fine fellow but I cannot say that I am personally fond of him He is a dry man austere and yet he has certainly a very great influence over his sister and is devoted to her He was very angry when Sir Charles broke off the intimacy with Miss Lyons and I am sure that he was very glad to see his sister resume her friendship with the old baronet

Holmes

Did Stapleton propose to marry Miss Lyons

Mortimer

No he was devoted to his sister and refused to allow anything to stand in the way of her interests He was present at the interview and plainly said so

Holmes

Hum Have you any reason to suppose that Stapleton wished his sister to marry Sir Charles

Mortimer

Certainly he did

Holmes

Now to the point

Mortimer

Stapleton was a strict Roman Catholic and Sir Charles while liberal in all religious questions was very firm in his own opinions The couple had one child a girl of seventeen Under the circumstances it was natural that Sir Charles should be reluctant to see too much of a young lady who was the image of her mother and that Stapleton should be equally anxious that his sister should accept the friendship which was offered to her

Holmes

Thank you Now as to the letter Did you see Sir Charles on the day when he received it

Mortimer

I did

Holmes

Did he say anything to you about it

Mortimer

He asked me if I had ever heard of any woman who was anxious to see him and I told him of Miss Stapleton's request

Holmes

Did it not occur to you that he might have learned all that he knew from Miss Stapleton herself

Mortimer

I was not aware that they were on terms

Holmes

Thank you Pray proceed

Mortimer

Sir Charles was a man of regular habits Every night before going to bed he walked down the yew alley Of this habit he had spoken frequently to me and I was aware that it was the custom which had been broken in upon by the appointment with the lady

Holmes

Quite so

Mortimer

On the night of March 4th Barrymore the butler who has been already mentioned asked leave of his master to go into the village of Coombe Tracey as his brother was leaving next day for South Africa Barrymore's account is that he found it impossible to get away before half past ten that he then hurried down the alley and that he was surprised not to find his master in the grounds He knew that Sir Charles must be in the house as the servants had not yet gone to bed but he was very unwilling to disturb the family He therefore returned to the gate where he had left his master in order to see if he could find any trace of him He then proceeded down the alley and had reached the point where the body was found when he was overtaken by the storm which was actually responsible for his master's death

Holmes

One moment Did Barrymore when he returned from Coombe Tracey pass through the garden to reach the house

Mortimer

He did

Holmes

Did he notice anything Footprints for example

Mortimer

He says not and I may say that I have taken pains to go into the matter very carefully

Holmes

Good

Mortimer

Barrymore has been with Sir Charles for five years and is a most trustworthy man

Holmes

Still he remains one of the possible factors in the case Let us leave him and consider what Miss Stapleton may have meant by asking Sir Charles to destroy her letter Presumably she wished to have a clear understanding with him upon the subject of her friendship with Miss Lyons

Mortimer

Very possibly

Holmes

Her own letter was not found then among Sir Charles's papers

Mortimer

No but as I have told you he destroyed all letters every morning

Holmes

Then we have no means of knowing whether she did or did not wish to have a clear understanding with him Now Dr Mortimer I am coming round to your view that this is a case of considerable interest and that it may require very careful handling I am obliged to you for calling my attention to it Are you returning to Devonshire at once

Mortimer

I am staying in London for a few days

Holmes

Can you meet me here at ten o'clock on Thursday morning

Mortimer

Certainly

Holmes

Then I should like to have a few words with you

Mortimer

Very good

Holmes

Meanwhile I congratulate you on having come into contact with a case which is certainly remarkable in its features and which possesses some novel points of interest I have been the victim of one myself Dr Mortimer and I shall be very much surprised if I do not make some return to you for the light which you have thrown upon my mind this morning

Mortimer

I am much indebted to you for your kindness in giving me an appointment so promptly

Holmes

You will excuse me for saying that you have hardly treated the matter as a detective would who looked forward to making use of the facts for a professional purpose

Mortimer

I am no detective I am a plain practical man and I should be very glad to see the matter cleared up before I am drawn into the limelight of a public inquiry

Holmes

You shall be Trust me that your name will not be mentioned in connection with the case Good morning

LESSEES GET TIMBER REWARD

Whitford and Watkins Make a Strike on Work Company Property on Gold Hill---Many Small Shipments From Various Sections of Camp.

Special to the Gazette.

Cripple Creek, August 6.—The present week will find the Cripple Creek district keeping work a piece of property in which Whitford is the head of Lessee Whitford, a member of the firm of Whitford & Watkins, of Anaconda, being on the Work company's Gold hill territory. For the past four years Mr. Whitford has been working on the block of ground, and all during this time, until within the past few days, he never got an assay over $4 in gold to the ton. During this period he has been associated with several parties in this lease, but none of them worked the lease alone. Lately he formed a partnership with Mr. Watkins, the lessees have been working through a tunnel on Gold hill about 600 feet. Good for tune, indeed, last week Pierce, the superintendent, and now they have it cut down to two and one half feet of ore that will average fifty ounces to a ton in gold. Friends of Mr. Whitford who have watched his work on this property are warmly congratulating him.

Another carload shipment of smelting ore ore was sent out today from the Craig & Ames lessees on the old Dayton-Lee workings of the Doctor Jack Pot company on Raven hill. The lessees have finished the work of sinking a winze from the 200-foot level with the third level and this completion has proven the ore body to be continuous. The ore shoot now in sight is said to be from four to eight feet wide and the lessees have more ore in sight than at any time since they began operations.

Lessees Duffy operating the Kelley shaft of the Elkton Consolidated company, have just received their check for two lots of ore sent to market last week. The ore averaged two ounces in gold to the ton.

Lessees Deering and Pierce operating the south block of the Black Bell claim on Bearon hill, have received returns from a carload shipment sent out last week from the 200-foot level. The ore returned a little better than one ounce in gold to the ton. Morris Bros., leasing on block 2 of this claim, have just commenced a contract to sink the main working shaft an additional 100 feet. This work has already progressed 15 feet below the 285 foot level and when the contract is completed the shaft will have a depth of 385 feet.

Bernard & company, subleasing on the Talbot block of the Gold Dollar company's Bearon hill territory, today sent to market 15 tons of ore expected to average an average value of $15 in gold to the ton.

Clements & Osborn, leasing on the Tajo cut of the Elkton Consolidated company, today sent out one car of ore to the Colorado City plant.

Crowder & McFarland, leasing on the Pharmacist, will tomorrow send to mill two carloads of good grade ore.

Wilhelm Ardell, leasing on the Gold Sovereign on Bull hill, sent out a car of ore yesterday. O'Brien and Dudley, leasing on the Whitney shaft of this property, also hoisted out one car of ore.

Dan Foley, leasing on the Burke of the Acacia company, on Bull hill, yesterday made a shipment of several tons of ore. The lessee intends to work the Eagle samples.

Two carloads of ore were sent out today from George Hummel's lease on the Gold Coin property on the south slope of Gold hill.

COLORADO SPRINGS MINING STOCK EXCHANGE

Colorado Springs, Aug. 5. The strength and upward movement that has been shown on the mining stock exchange for the past few days was more pronounced on today's call than it has been heretofore. The brokers are a shade more optimistic as well as pleased with the tone of the market. The talk of the trading was in the mines last in that division of the stocks. There is a fair prospect for spring into prominence of considerable activity. The call in the stock was exceptionally dull with the exception of Cripple Creek Consolidated which sold to 4 cents. Other sales were: Work, 5 cents.

EASTERN MARKETS

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

Report of Lodenburg, Thalmann & Co., to William A. Otis & Co.:

New York, Aug. 5.—This has been the dullest day in more than a month. The tone has been firm all day with the trading confined almost entirely to specialties. Missouri Pacific was weak at the start but subsequently rallied. Fluctuations of more than a point have been rare. There has been no news bearing on values except the July earnings which show good increases in most cases and satisfactory crops reports. Arbitrage houses bought Norfolk and some other stocks but the total business was only about 12,000 shares, the selling slightly exceeding the buying.

Time money shows a hardening tendency and the foreign exchange market is stronger.

Demand, sterling, $4.85.

CHICAGO GRAIN & PROVISIONS.

Report of Logan & Bryan to William A. Otis & Co.:

Chicago, August 5.—Wheat, Liverpool came in higher. Paris unchanged. Broadstuff traders the world's visible decreased 1,000,000. The market was again dull and heavy. Fine weather continues in the northwest for ripening and harvesting the crops. The large primary receipts and show of wheat are responsible for the rout. The tone of the foreign markets continues dull. Specific operations in the market were of a very small scale. At the moment we see no indications of improvement. [illegible]

Corn, Lard and Pork higher. The tone of the market was again weak. Although there is quite a good demand, the offerings are free and fine crop prospects seem to control the tendency of the market. Continental markets are also very weak and much lower prices than here. Unless the market is aided by unfavorable crop developments or short sales it looks like [illegible]

Open. The market was fairly active and considering the weakness in other grains, fairly steady. There is still some indication of a little investment of outside money but with cheaper demand also. Threshing returns are on the whole favorable. Estimated cars [illegible]

Provisions. The market was firm and sold prices a shade better. Receipts of hogs are about equal to 60,000 head. Shipping demand is quite good and the quantity of meat is better than last week. Prices are still supported by [illegible] packing interests. Cash demand is only moderate and we think the ultimate condition will be lower.

A Natural Limit.

Charles M. Schwab is a comparatively young man of vigorous physique who should not be overcumbering to himself with fat. The fact that he is suffering symptoms of a collapse at the attention given in Europe, and [illegible] up discussion of the limitation imposed upon industrial combination by the limited capacity of the human mind. Combination depends for its success upon soundness of control. It is like an army on a campaign, whose commander-in-chief is divided, and the second fear of responsibility upon the first commander. He reposes directly upon the size of the trust. If, then, a billionaire should even break down a man of Schwab's physique and generals robust health inside of two years, the limit of combination might seem to have been reached. So while there are plenty of men ready to take Schwab's place at $1,000,000 a year and to conduct their affairs more nearly in any wise capable of filling it. Quite likely his breakdown is due to causes unrelated to his work. It may be due rather to the $1,000,000 he is building for himself. But there remains ground for belief that capital combinations are passing the limit where it is within the capacity of the strongest individual to maintain a close personal oversight of the whole business and retain his health.—Las Vegas Optic.

The Proper Way to Exercise.

Instead of wearing out their strength in exercising machines rebel sockets should go to the woods and the mountains should pitch their tents in some neighboring wooded highlands and share the fun of hoeing out a trail in the next spring should gather Alpine rose in the deep clefts, and climb trees in quest of squirrel nests, should fetch their own fuel from the pine knot bottoms, and arrange expeditions to the highest peaks of the neighborhood.

In that manner a two weeks' camp in Elysium will suffice to lay in a reserve store of health for several months of town life, and besides, experience will prove that work with a practical purpose and the stimulus of visible results enables an invalid to beguile himself into an amount of exercise unattainable by the manual of the horizontal bar.

In stress of circumstances, city dwellers may try the compromise of an amateur carpenter shop, or, like Elihu Burritt, get an anvil to hammer out biliousness and blue devils.

Turner halls, though, are encouraging signs of the times, and the healing art would enter a new era of success if the patrons of the nostrum monger could be persuaded to try Dr. Boerhaave's plan and "counteract the disorders of the human organism mechanically, instead of chemically, by chopping down a butterwood tree, instead of swallowing a decoction of its nauseous leaves."

The moral healing art, too, is important. It is equally important, for self-reliance has no more insidious foe than the despondency that so often follows the abuse of drugs, and yields permanently only to the magic of outdoor exercise.

Movement-cure associations are the harbingers of that reform, and the time may be near when invalids who insist on "taking something" will be advised to "take a whack at the woodpile," or a walk in the park.—(August Success.

The Thrust of a Lance is scarcely more agonizing than the recurrent pains in the abdomen which follow the eating of improper food or too free indulgence in ice-water. The immediate cause of cramps and colic is often the distention of the bowels by gas. Quick relief follows the use of Perry Davis' Painkiller. Careful housekeepers give it the place of honor in the family medicine chest.

HORSE THIEVES SEEM TO BE AT WORK IN THIS COMMUNITY.

Two Valuable Horses Have Been Stolen From Immediate Vicinity Recently.

From the fact that valuable horses have been stolen from people in this vicinity in the past few days it is thought that a band of horse thieves are working this part of the state. Last Saturday R. R. Donnelly of Roswell had a horse valued at $100 taken from the premises of which no trace can be found and yesterday A. S. Duke of 16 South Tejon street reported the theft of a valuable horse from the Hemenway ranch south of this city. The latter animal has been tracked several miles south of the city on the Canon City road but there the clew was lost. When last seen a middle aged person who represented himself to be an Indian was with it. While these cases are still fresh they have been reported to the police it is understood that there has been considerable stealing of the kind going on lately in that portion of the country and it is believed to be the work of an organized gang.

HATLEY BOUND OVER TO DISTRICT COURT

George Hatley the colored man who was arrested by Detectives Atkinson and Gregory for alleged stealing of a watch from a woman of a train on the Santa Fe, Monday was arraigned before Justice McClelland yesterday afternoon on the charge of highway robbery. Hatley waived examination and was bound over to the district court, but being fixed at $500 in default of which he was committed to the county jail. Ernest Johnson also colored was arrested with Hatley but was not held, owing to the lack of sufficient evidence against him. Hatley is alleged to have snatched a gold watch from a lady passenger on one of the Pullmans attached to a Santa Fe train and to have made off with it. He was standing on the platform when the act is said to have occurred and grabbed the watch from where it was pinned on the lady's dress as the train was pulling out from the station. The police were notified and found Hatley [illegible] in the Santa Fe yards. The men are said to have been working the route between this city and Denver for some time. The watch, which is valued at about $50, was recovered.

Have Women a Sense of Humor?

In Harper's Bazar for July Mr. Robert J. Burdette discusses entertainingly (content that topic of perennial depth, "Have Women a Sense of Humor?" With the conclusion reached by Mr. Burdette that "her (woman's) sense of humor is as correct as it is delicate" we pick the tenderfoot, or the enterprise, to disagree, although we should hesitate to dispose of so momentous a question in the summary and refreshingly confident manner in which Mr. Burdette dispose of it. But on one point we must contend with him if we would maintain unstarnished our ideal of humor. "Now unhappily, in humor," remarks Mr. Burdette in passing, "there is still just a shade of the brutality of its origin, for it was born of cruelty, heartlessness, and pain. . . ." Against such a conception of the nature and origin of humor we most emphatically protest. Humor, it is true, issues from a sense of the incongruous; but the humorous perception of incongruity, far from carrying a taint of "brutality, cruelty, heartlessness, and pain," is, in its very essence, eminently tender, eminently humane. Humor, says Mr. Meredith in that wonderful analysis of the comic spirit, the introduction to "The Egoist," "proposes the correcting of pretentiousness, of inflation, of dullness, and of the vestiges of rawness and grossness yet to be found among us. She is the ultimate civilizer, the polisher, a sweet cook. 'In comedy is the singular sense of charity issuing of disdain under the stroke of honorable laughter. . . . And this laughter of reason refreshed is floriferous, like the mingled great gale men." No humor is never brutal nor cruel; if it were brutal or cruel it would not be humor. Mr. Burdette must have, for the moment, mistaken humor for wit, which is a very different thing. For humor is of the spirit. It is "the soul reckling with its own moisture." Man, we may remember, is "an omnivorous biped, that wears breeches" and yet "a soul, a spirit, and divine apparition." There we have the perfect humor; it is not destructive, it is constructive; it perceives the incongruous because it divines at the same time an ultimate harmony and perfectness, an ultimate fulfilment; it is "sky-woven, and worthy of a God."—(Harper's Weekly.

Idle and Overworked.

"In fine, I hardly know who are most to be pitied, the rich or idle and lazy who underwork, or the very poor who must overwork to live. The former grow flabby or tense according to their heredity in both muscle and mind, become fastidious, finnicky and sentimental, are especially prone to yield to temptations of drink and of sex excesses, must aimlessly change their interests, location and pursuits from sheer ennui, are easily bored, and finally lose the power of being strenuous about anything. The effects of an inactive life upon the offspring are sometimes sadly and markedly degenerate.

"The overworked, especially if young, are prone to many forms of arrest. Children are undergrown in both height and weight; they are robbed of the paradise of leisure, which is the literal translation of the Greek word school. The high ideals and ambitions normal to adolescence fade into a dull state of apathy and discouragement, and, at worst of smoldering revolt against the existing order of things. To be always tired is miserable, and individual or social misery is a powder magazine liable to explode at any time.

"Man is endowed with a fatigue sense that tells him when he is tired. It seems to be a specific feeling, due perhaps to accumulated products of decomposition in the muscles. This pain-like sensation is a warning to stop or let up. It is, however, possible to press on in defiance of it, and it is at this point in so doing there comes a point when this fatigue sense is itself fatigued and tired out and ceases to act. This is when runners get their second breath, when those beginning night work have fought through the period of sleepiness that comes when they have been wont to go to bed, and feel very wide awake and alert as if they could go on forever. But the day of reckoning comes. They are now living on their capital which [illegible] rapidly overdrawn." (From Nineteenth Century.

American Business Methods in Japan.

The following extract is from an editorial which appears in the August Success. It is by Baron Eiichi Shibusawa, the eminent Japanese financier who has just made a tour of the United States. The editorial was written in Japanese and translated for Success. Since my arrival in the United States a number of American newspapers have read me the high compliment of calling me the J. Pierpont Morgan of Japan. This is doing me too much honor, for while it has been my endeavor for years to organize capital on a scale large enough to carry on great industries in Japan, yet the scope of my work is not so great as that of your eminent organizer and financier.

Even if my opportunities in Japan were as great as are Mr. Morgan's in this country, I would not presume to say that I could accomplish as much as he has but as a matter of fact my opportunities are not so great. We in Japan are where you were say 30 years ago. Our era of material and commercial development is just beginning while yours has reached the second stage. Mr. Morgan is organizing into great combinations industries and concerns which are themselves combinations, and so are almost great individual strength while I, to the best of my ability, am promoting the primary or initial industries. We Japanese feel rather proud of the progress we have made since our country was opened to the influences of western civilization and trade.

The commerce of the United States is becoming fixed and solidified. You have the big, strong units of capital. Mr. Morgan and a few are merely uniting them into greater and stronger units, while we are just beginning to train our infantry units. Many times I have heard Americans spoken of as "the land of opportunity," but I am sure that there will not be so many opportunities here, in the twentieth century, as there were in the nineteenth, for unreasonless waiting is on to become commerce of great capital. The reason for this lies in the increasing complexity [illegible] which I have already mentioned. Foreigners will be too strongly intrenched behind their bulwarks of capital to be dislodged by the free lances of chance, except with the greatest difficulty. The object of the latter, as managers of [illegible] and capital will be able to command high salaries, but a much smaller number of them than heretofore will be masters of the commercial forces they direct.

CONSUMPTION That king of terrors, robbed of its death-dealing power by the discovery of Mrs. J. A. La Rue. Great Consumption Cure.

This lady's name is known throughout the world on account of the deep interest she has taken in all scientific matters. Her extensive travels have taken her to all parts of the earth amongst all peoples and in different times and she has invariably found that the dread disease CONSUMPTION has [illegible] more homes, caused more misery and death than any and all other diseases known to the human family. Young and old alike fall and it is popularly supposed to be incurable when once the poisoned fangs of the monster has touched its victim and that slow death with all its tortures is the inevitable end. Not so, MRS. LA RUE'S investigative mind has penetrated deeply into cause and effect and in different countries she has discovered the HERBS (seven in number) which if compounded in the proper proportions form an antidote and is an infallible cure for CONSUMPTION. It has never failed and cannot fail except in the last stages when nothing is left on which to build.

CRIPPLE CREEK NEWS NOTES

Fred Howland Killed by Cave-in in the El Paso---Three Others Injured.

Cripple Creek Bureau
Colorado Springs Gazette.

Cripple Creek August 5.—Fred Howland a single man 26 years of age was instantly killed at 8 45 o'clock this morning in the new El Paso shaft on Beacon hill by being crushed in a cave in. Howland in company with John Moose Burt Smith and Joseph Schunk was working upon a platform upraising in the shaft. This shaft is known as the old Columbia shaft and is being enlarged by upraising in it. While the men were engaged in this work a slab of rock about 8 feet long and weighing fully 5 tons fell from above. It struck Howland squarely and he was crushed beneath the great weight. Other rocks falling completely buried him. Death was probably instantaneous. John Moose was struck on the right leg by the huge rock and the limb was broken and badly crushed. The left foot of Burt Smith was crushed and Joe Schunk sustained bruises about the knees and hips. It required quite a little time to remove the unfortunate men from their dangerous position. The body of Mr Howland was raised to the surface and taken to Hunt's morgue at Victor. This afternoon at 4 30 o'clock Deputy Coroner Gould impaneled a jury and held an inquest over the body of the unfortunate man. The jury found that Fred Howland came to his death by being crushed by a cave-in of rocks in the new shaft of the El Paso mine at about 8 45 o'clock August 5 1902 and that the accident was unavoidable and that the El Paso Mining company had exercised due caution and was in no wise responsible for the said accident. The verdict is signed by F P Sheafor foreman. Deceased was a member of Victor Lodge I O O F and tomorrow evening at 7 o'clock this body will hold funeral services. To morrow morning the body will be taken to the old home of the deceased at Oklahoma City Oklahoma.

Probably the most important matter that will come up at the head camp session of the Woodmen of the World now being held in this city will be the question of raising the insurance rates. The National fraternal congress has decided that the rates of fraternal societies in the United States are too low and that all rates must be raised within the next two years or the society refusing to raise the rate will forfeit its membership in the fraternal congress. Delegates to the session now being held in this city are firmly of the opinion that the head camp will legislate for this change. Another matter of interest is that proposed by Head Consul F A Falkenburg who proposes to admit men of all vocations into the order. In the past those men following hazardous vocations have been barred from membership but now Mr Falkenburg proposes that the head camp adopt a scale and admit miners engineers police men etc under this scale. To illustrate he figures that a railroad engineer follows a vocation 35 per cent more hazardous than the ordinary business man. He will admit the engineer to the order and accept the regulation premium from him but in case the engineer is killed while following his vocation he will receive only 75 per cent of the insurance accorded to a business man. If the engineer however meets death while not engaged in his vocation he will receive the full amount of insurance. At today's session of the Woodmen the remaining reports of the head officers were received after which the delegates went into a committee of the whole to take up the question of legislation. Today the delegates selected a meeting place for the next biennial. There were three cities in the race Los Angeles Portland Oregon and Carson City Nevada. After the first few ballots Portland and Carson City withdrew from the race and Los Angeles was made the unanimous choice. The head camp will meet in Los Angeles either two or three years from 1902. The Grand Circle Women of Woodcraft at this morning's session elected the following officers after a spirited contest. Grand Guardian Mrs Carrie C Vay Oakdale of Oregon Grand Adviser Mrs D R Derrick of Oakland Cal Grand Clerk Mrs J I Wright of Leadville Grand Banker Mary Hurley of Portland Ore Grand Managers Florence Wehrly of Los Angeles Clara Hollis of Denver and Mrs Cora Wilson of Seattle Grand Magician Mrs Kansas Goodnough of Denver, Grand Attendant Mrs Mary Brewster of Washington Outer Sentinel Mrs Rita McConnell of Boise City Idaho Inner Sentinel Mrs Flora Bishop of Helena Mont. Tomorrow morning the delegates of both orders will go to Victor to be escorted through the Gold Coin mine workings and Columbine tunnel and afterwards be entertained at luncheon by the Victor camp. Tonight the prize drill was held at Odd Fellows hall before a large crowd.

In the drill contest of the Circle teams Women of Woodcraft the Silver state team of Denver captured the first prize of $175, Victor Circle got second prize of $75 and Cripple Creek took third. The Cripple Creek Women of Woodcraft team drilled without competition and was given $175 prize. The judges were John H Foley of Los Angeles J C Jones of Portland Ore and Mrs Helen R Campbell of Great Falls Mont. A large crowd witnessed the drill and a dance followed.

Rosanie Thomas, the widow of the late James Thomas, commenced suit in the district court today to recover $5,000 damages from Stratton's Independence, Ltd and George Gill, a contractor at the Independence property. The plaintiff alleges that through the negligence of George Gill in conducting work on the second level of the Independence on July 7, last, her husband, James Thomas, together with James Welch, another workman, were caught between two blasts and compelled to inhale the poisonous fumes of the giant powder. She alleges that as a result of this her husband died the next day.

During a severe thunder and lightning storm this afternoon, the home of J. A. Provo at 213 West M. avenue, was struck by lightning. Mrs. Provo had a premonition that something was about to happen either to her or to her child. The little one was playing in a bedroom and just before the lightning struck the house,

NEWS NOTES FROM DENVER

State Board of Assessors Discusses Recent Assessments.

Denver Bureau
Colorado Springs Gazette

Denver August 5.—It is probable that some action will be taken between the state board of equalization and the state board of assessors. The latter board is meeting in the rotunda of the state house this afternoon and tomorrow morning to discuss the recent assessments. Properly speaking the members are not in session but in the nature of a committee of the whole to consider just what action if any is to be taken by the state board of equalization. The latter body has increased the assessments of corporate property from $60,000,000 to $80,000,000. The increase of the corporate property could be levied that amount after the apportionment was made. It is responsible for the valuation of the state board of equalization and stood to the interests that their value individuals and corporations of the state. While in no wise bound by the decision of the assessors board the state board of equalization will probably accept the valuations as made by the assessors and will not increase them correspondingly. It is expected that the state board of equalization will probably meet tomorrow morning and after discussing the matter upon the state board will adjourn and ascertain what action if any will be taken by the assessors board. The latter board will meet this evening and tomorrow morning for the purpose of fixing the valuations for taxation purposes which it is thought will be made by the state board of equalization. In addition to the above Deputy Assessor Billings of Pueblo says the father of the present assessment law is the state board of equalization. By raising the assessments the state board of equalization has compelled the assessors to raise the valuations. So it may be said that the state board of equalization is responsible for the increase in the value of property and upon the four mill tax levied. It is doubtful whether the tax levied next year will be raised for the assessors. The state board of assessors is listening to the protests of the various counties. Persons who will go to the expense of employing attorneys to appear before the state board of assessors will be disappointed. The board will not grant hearings to attorneys. It is believed that the decision will be rendered by the assessors this morning. It is thought that by the end of the week that the state board of equalization will have completed its work.

There are two factors that will work against the reduction in the valuation of local property. One is the opposition that will come from Arapahoe county. The Twelfth general assembly passed a law limiting the liability in Arapahoe

INJUNCTIONS AGAINST BOARD OF TRADE FIRMS

By Associated Press

Chicago, Aug 5. Injunctions were secured today from Judge Chetlain by Waite Thorburn & Co grain commission men against three other board of trade firms to prevent settlements in July oats deal. President Warren is restrained from indorsing down margins to the firms who bought July oats of the complainants to the extent of $50,000. The Bank of Montreal is also enjoined from paying over the margins. To date 11 injunctions have been issued by Judge Chetlain and Chetlain as the out come of the charge by this board of trade firm that leading bulls were endeavoring to corner in July oats. The action today was precipitated by similar action on the part of a board of trade committee which ordered settlements made by a number of unfortunate shorts in the July operations.

The cases will come up for hearing before Judge Chetlain tomorrow.

The firm of Waite and Thoburne was suspended from the board of trade by a vote of the directors at a meeting this afternoon. Complaint was made by Harrison Gates & Co that an indebtedness of $50,000 incurred during the recent corner in corn had been unsatisfied. Mr Thoburne asked the directors for more time in which to make a defense but the request was denied. Concerning the action of the board Mr Thoburne said:

"The suspension will make no difference in our fight by the court to prove the illegality of corners. We believe that as a result of our action there will never be another corner attempted on the board of trade."

All unhappiness as all happiness is from within. For, as St Bernard has said "Nothing can work me damage but myself. The harm that I sustain, I carry about with me and I am never a real sufferer but by my own fault." From the kingdom of the mind issue the edicts that govern life. If a ruler of a country were to abdicate, and turn his authority over to a lawless mob, one would hardly expect to see peace and order and happiness follow. If the ruler of his mind steps down from his throne, and allows fear anxiety hate envy and other rioters to usurp his authority, what can he expect but anarchy disorder, and unhappiness?"—(Success.

A number of Denver ladies are planning to visit the St Louis fair in a body in 1904. Their manner of securing the trip is extremely novel. They are organizing a St Louis World's Fair society and monthly dues will be charged. All funds will be kept until the fair is held, when it is expected enough money will be in the treasury to guarantee all a long visit at the exposition. The scheme is being "mothered" by some of the best known women in the city.

Profitable Investment By a Victor Man---Progress on New Water Works.

Victor Bureau
Colorado Springs Gazette

Victor Aug 5. An investment made two years ago by Joseph Connors, employed at Hand's clothing store, would appear to have been a most excellent one, according to a letter received by Mr Connors today. About two years ago, while in Denver, a promoter prevailed upon Mr Connors to invest $1,000 in 1,000 shares of the Cumberland Mountain Oil company's stock, owning ground in Kentucky. Mr Connors, after purchasing the stock watched developments, and finally decided that the stock was worthless. After drilling three holes to great depth a fine quality of lubricating oil was struck and today Mr Connors received a letter from Cleveland, Ohio, parties in which he is offered $2,000 for the stock which two years ago cost him just $1,000.

Dunphy & Nelson who secured the contract to construct the dam at Bison Park for the Victor water works system, will commence work tomorrow. At the park City Engineer Pollok has just completed an excellent piece of tunnel work. A tunnel 12 feet long was run through a mountain for a waterway. Two gangs of men were put to work one at each end of the tunnel and today when the gangs met it was found that the tunnel connected within two thirds of an inch.

Mr Ell Jennings of this city and Miss Harriett G Stiteby of Evansville Ind were united in marriage last evening after being acquainted only 10 days. Their wedding carries out the old saying "If you find a hair pin and hang it on a nail the owner will have a beau before the pin rusts." It was about 10 days ago that Miss Stiteby and her cousin, Miss Wisch of Cripple Creek were looking over this property. Miss Wisch took one of Miss Stiteby's hair pins and hung it on a nail near their home. That evening the young lady was introduced to Mr Jennings of this city and last night the wedding ceremony was performed. The happy couple will make their home here.

The stone foundation for St Victor's Catholic church being built at the corner of Portland avenue and Second street is being laid as rapidly as possible. Rev Father Downey pastor of St Victor's church has worked hard to secure the new structure and when the building is completed it will be one that Victorites can be proud of.

On next Saturday and Sunday at Union park in Cripple Creek the Victor Pikes baseball team will play the Cottrell team of Denver.

J A Godfrey the well known merchant of this city is dangerously ill at the Victor hospital. About 10 days ago Mr. Godfrey was suffering from what he supposed to be a toothache. He went to a dentist and the gum was lanced. Later blood poisoning developed and the physicians at the hospital performed an operation. Tonight it is stated that Mr Godfrey's chances for recovery are very slight.

THE NEWSPAPER POLICY OF THE GAZETTE.

THE GAZETTE is pleased that the question of the Gazette's policy as a public newspaper and that point in relation to the news exactly is the question upon which it has invited discussion. We talk for publication exactly as they talk in private, up to the limit of the freest possible discussion in its columns of all public questions. We print news exactly as they occur and publish public speeches exactly as they are uttered.

The Gazette's editorial page is published in the same manner. We allow any reflection or innuendos or attacks that are considered fair and pertinent.

I regret to say that the Gazette has made use the police with some of its own employes.

While both the managing and city editors were away on their vacations a local article appeared in the columns of the Gazette which reflected in a lighting way the character of people with whom the reporter and the reporter who wrote the article were dismissed from the service of the Gazette.

Under the unfavorable condition it is difficult for any new paper to adhere consistently to such fair rules as the treatment of the public as those adopted by the Gazette and others will. But when they do the paper will promptly remedy them and where such error appears to be unusual the Gazette will promptly correct them. Give the person or persons responsible full credit.

ADVANTAGES OF MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP.

WITHIN the past few weeks the people of Colorado cities have had a pretty good chance to compare the relative advantages of municipal ownership of water works as compared with ownership by private corporation. Nearly all the larger and smaller cities of the state are dependent for their domestic water supply upon the enterprise of private capital. Colorado Springs is a notable example in point that from the first has consistently pursued the policy of municipal ownership and has refused to depart from that principle.

Throughout Colorado the summer of 1902 has been exceptionally dry and the fourth has severely tested the supply and use of the water companies. The most notable failure to meet pressing necessities has come from Denver where it has been found necessary to put restriction that the sprinkling of lawns, formerly the common custom of the people, must be discontinued from hose receive a list of persons [illegible] which must [illegible] railway rates, hotels and reasonable [illegible] monthly expense.
